

DAVIS SWEARS THAT HE DIDN'T LEAD MOB

Flatly Denies the Statement Made on Stand by Orchard.

TOLD OF ORCHARD'S THREAT

Others, Testifying for Haywood, Show Basis of Steunenberg Plot.

BOISE, IDAHO, June 26.—William F. Davis, of Goldfield, Nev., one of the most important witnesses for the defense of William D. Haywood, accused of the murder of Frank Steunenberg, was called to the stand at noon today, and his cross-examination had not been completed when court adjourned this afternoon. Harry Orchard testified that Davis led and commanded the mob that destroyed the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill in 1899; inspired, as the agent of Haywood and Meyer, the Vindicator explosion and the train-wrecking plot at Cripple Creek, and was an accomplice in the Independence Station crime.

On direct examination by Clarence Darro, Davis went over the story of his working life, and made positive denial of every statement of Orchard that involved him or his associates in any form of crime. Davis denied that he was even a member of the union which the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill was blown up. Davis swore that Orchard told him of the Hercules mine affair, and threatened to kill Steunenberg.

The cross-examination of Davis by Senator Darro was severe and searching. It was chiefly devoted, as far as it proceeded, to the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill, and the circumstances under which Orchard made the threat against Steunenberg. Davis asserted that he remained at Gem the day the Bunker Hill mill was blown up. While he saw the train in charge of the marked mob arrive and depart from Gem, he could not name any one on the train except Engineer Patton. He said there was no excitement, and he made no inquiry about the mob.

In hiding after week. Davis said that he remained in hiding after the mill was blown up because he did not want to be deported or thrown into the "Deli Pen," and that he changed his name when he departed for Butte shortly afterwards, because he feared the mine owners' "blacklist." Davis made up from a petition that the employees of the Bunker Hill had sent to Governor McCampbell protesting against the unsafety of the mine. Darro showed that the petition had been presented six years before, and that Butte was a federation camp, where the blacklist was ineffective. Passing to the alleged threat that Orchard made against Steunenberg, the witness was unable to recall what any one else had said on that occasion except the words of Orchard. Davis will return to the stand tomorrow.

Told of Orchard's threat. Mrs. Lottie L. Darro, testified that in 1904, Orchard told her of the loss of his interest in the Hercules mine, and that he said he would kill Steunenberg for the wrong done him. John D. Elliott, an old soldier, swore that Orchard told him on a train in Idaho, in the fall of 1905 that Orchard was in the employment of the mine owners, and that there was a plot against the federation and its leaders. Cross-examination showed that Elliott had twice been in an insane asylum with a mind unbalanced by family troubles.

Asked about Penbody. John M. O'Neill, editor of the Miners' Magazine, testified that in 1905 and 1906, he addressed Governor Peabody and General Sherman Bell, who, he said, had been in the Hercules mine. O'Neill also said that he had seen Orchard at federation headquarters several times, and that Steve Adams and Mrs. Adams had also been there.

STEWARDS REFUSE RACING LICENSE

Request of Jamestown Exposition Authorities Again Turned Down by Jockey Club.

NEW YORK, June 26.—At a meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Club to-day a motion was adopted declaring, "It is with extreme regret that the stewards of the Jockey Club cannot see their way clear to change their opinion from the meeting held February 18th as to granting license for a race meeting at Jamestown, Va., in 1907."

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE ORGANIZES FOR WORK

ATLANTA, GA., June 26.—The Georgia Legislature convened to-day in regular annual session. The organization of both houses was quickly made by the selection of Senator John W. Akin, of Bartow, as President of the Senate, and John M. Stanton, Atlanta, as Speaker of the House. Governor John M. Terrell's message was read in both houses. It deals largely with taxation, State finances, educational matters, and the better training of nurses.

Fear Governor of Hawaii. OYSTER BAY, June 26.—President Roosevelt to-day formally appointed Judge William F. Frear to be Governor of Hawaii. Judge Frear is a native of California, a graduate of Yale and now holds the chief justiceship of the Supreme Court of Honolulu. He has been called his acceptance of the appointment.

Wise Talks by "the Office Boy"

Say, that talk about the union between Mexico and Guatemala makes you smile, doesn't it? I bet it was like Germany going to war with Greece, or the United States invading Rhode Island. But I heard another man say those Central American chaps were a keen lot, and that Mexico would at least know she was in a scrap. Something like our Business Suits, I guess. They're the snappy stuff, all right, but they don't make you feel a bit scrappy. As a matter of fact, you've got the flap on without a shot if you wear the kind of Business Suits we are showing this season. We have them at all prices, from 75c to $25, and during this month the boss has ordered a 10 per cent. reduction to unload a few of them. They are beauties. But say, you ought to see our window full of Two-Piece Suits. Just the right thing for the hot weather, and with 10 per cent. off, you get your choice of the lot at $5.95. They are all marked $7.50, but I'll let you in on what the boss did. Some of them were marked $10 and $12.50, and are worth it, but the old man said to mark them all $7.50, then allow 10 per cent. off. Don't you think that was generous in the old man. He told me, "So get wise, but for my sake keep mum. Come in and see us."

controversy, but his statement was in direct conflict with that of Mr. Blair. Looking around and asking: "Is Mr. Blair present?" and receiving no response, though Mr. Blair was in the crowd before him, he declared that he felt called upon to make a statement in view of Mr. Blair's remarks. A part of which was his (Harman's) letter. "I can say truthfully," he went on, "that every word in that letter is absolutely true. If Mr. Blair meant to deny my statement specifically he should have done so in plain terms. In view of his general denial, this is all I feel called upon to say."

Mr. Blair made no reply, and thus the incident closed for the time being at least, and Senator Harman went on reviewing his legislative record, and asking his friends to return him to the Senate.

Old-Fashioned Sort. The meeting was one of those old-fashioned Democratic rallies, which indeed he called a "howling success." The small boy was in evidence, and contributed much to the hilarity of the occasion. In his speech of Mr. Blair and the prompt and direct reply of Senator Harman, the meeting was quite harmonious, and the crowd lived in brotherly love. "The crowd was good-natured, and every now and then the speakers would give a little of the good old 'howling'."

"Come on, Peyton, you are the boy," yelled some one, as this gentleman arose to plead his cause, and "Coke" it "handed" Mr. Folkes.

"I'm going to vote for you," said a tall man when Mr. Blair came forward eloquently for improvements in the public school system, some one yelled, "How about the Bunker Hill?" and often drove his little Shetland pony to a cart through that section.

According to schedule. All the candidates spoke, and they all got good attention and friendly greetings. There were fourteen of them, and one long train passed over the Chesapeake and Ohio tracks hard by while each was addressing the crowd. "This is a pretty regular schedule," said Mr. Glenn in winding up. "I hear my train coming, so I guess I had better stop."

Mr. Folkes spoke for some time against a steam whistle whose blast was loud and long, but he finally outdid it, and the whistle surrendered. "How about the Bunker Hill?" he created amusement by saying: "Mr. Chairman, ladies, fellow-citizens and the dear little children."

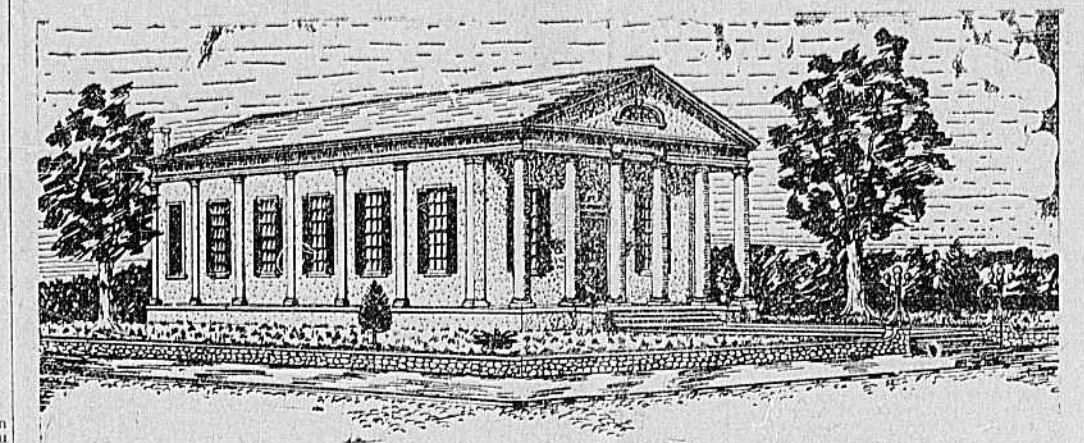

Although Messrs. Pollard, Puller and Wingo came late, they were given close attention, as were all the predecessors. Messrs. Puller, Cox and Massie have come to "scurry" over the Town Bill, though they reiterated their views conservatively on the subject.

Mr. Folkes' declaration against double taxation seemed to catch the crowd, and he was liberally applauded.

The meeting was a success in every respect. The grand wind-up will be in the Town Hall at Fairmount to-night.

WILL HOLD FIRST SERVICE IN NEW CHURCH ON SUNDAY

NEW FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST.

The congregation of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will hold the first service in their new house of worship on Sunday morning. The church stands on the corner of Park Avenue and Meadow Street, and is a handsome brick building of colonial design. The interior work is not entirely finished, the pews not being in place, but in as yet but by the use of chairs the congregation will be able to use the hall with comfort until all the woodwork is finished. The interior architecture is particularly pleasing, the dark oak woodwork harmonizing with the green tinted walls and white trimmings. Regular morning service will be held on Sunday at 11 A. M. and will be conducted by the first reader, Mrs. Alice Bernard, and evening service will be held at 8 o'clock.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, has now completed its sixth year of continuous service in Richmond, but this will be the first time that the congregation will meet under their own roof. The first meetings were held in the parlors of Mrs. Bernard, and later a store at Seventh and Main Streets was rented. For the past two years the congregation have met in Belvidere Hall. There are now seventy-five members, and a large number of regular attendants on the services.

No formal exercises in dedication of the new church building will be arranged until the interior is fully completed, and the building fully paid for by members' contributions. The interior work, including two elaborate readers' desks, are being hand-made by Mr. John C. Fletcher, of Richmond, and will be specimens of elaborate carving.

fied. I thought as they had expressed themselves that this question was settled, and that I was not to have the supervision of it, but to my surprise, the parties were selected to bid under my specifications and the work was recommended to be given to the Redds without my supervision, so that I felt called upon to address a letter to the Street Committee expressing myself in unmistakable terms that I would not be responsible for the work.

Asks to be Excused. "In view of all that has transpired and the newspaper notoriety that has been engendered, I wish to insist on the question being given to some one without my responsibility for it. The insinuation of the Redds in their newspaper statement that the chances are ninety-nine to one that if it had been given to Colonel Burgwyn nothing would have been heard about 'checking up,' and was Mr. Hankins' work checked up when he surveyed the Lee District some years ago, is a pure surmise on their part, and has no foundation in fact. Everybody knows that if I had the supervision of the work, the chances would have been upon the same footing, and I am sure that Mr. Burgwyn would never have expected any special favoritism from me in this work. The survey of Hankins' work in the Lee District was passed upon by assistants in my office, and the records of that survey are filed there. It is true that stones placed in Lee District were displaced and knocked out of position by traffic over the fields and by the grading of streets, but that took place in the district, and while it has been tedious to reset these stones as street corners were called for, it has not changed the accuracy of the survey, of which we have the record.

The annexed territory, marked in a similar way, and with the maps accurately recorded, would in the course of grading and traffic over the territory for a number of years be liable to the same disturbance in the Lee District. It is true that the two cases of an error of the location of this district was an error of the assistant who should have tested the accuracy of the location before excavating the sewer ditch. The error in the quadrant spoken of and of an alley were private surveys, and had no reference to our office.

The arbitration of a line around the Pumphouse Road was not an error of survey by one of our assistants, but the road running around the Pumphouse Road was not the arbitration resulted in buying that much more ground for the city. The dispute over the line of the Dooley Road and of the line at Broad Street of the Adams' were never reported back by one of our assistants before his death, and therefore are unsettled questions still, but after all, if the Redds, in an effort, as they express it, to defend themselves, have asked up every thing that they have ever heard of, why should not similar errors come to the front in surveys made by them if followed up in the same manner?

It took it that your committee and the Council want this work done, and want it properly tested, but in view of all of the feeling that has been caused, I repeat that I place the committee and the Council to excuse me from having Master or Servant.

Mr. Cannon, discussing the situation presented, said that he saw reason why the committee should recede from its position unless it were on the request of the Messrs. Redd that they be allowed to withdraw their bid. He cited the fact that the specifications provided that the work should be done under the supervision of the City Engineer. Mr. Cannon advocated the award to Redd & Brother, and in conclusion stated that if hereafter such a situation were presented as would make it necessary the Council could decide whether the City Engineer was the master or the servant of the city.

Mr. T. Crawford Redd, of the firm successfully bidding on the contract, was present and was asked to make a statement. He responded substantially and almost in so many words as in his letter to the Council asking leave to withdraw his bid, reiterating that request, stating that his firm was unwilling to belittle itself by accepting work for which the City Engineer had declared the firm to be incompetent. "Under no circumstances would we accept the work under the present specifications," said Mr. Redd in conclusion. He had stated, in justice to Colonel Cutshaw, that his firm could not afford to do the work at the price bid, but for the fact that they had worked in this territory, were thoroughly familiar with it, and had already on file in their office surveys of a large portion of it.

Councilman Don Leavy was accorded the floor and made a statement explanatory of his attitude on the matter. He stated that it was before the Council, he disclaimed any intention to reflect upon the committee or upon Redd and Brother, but had advocated the imposition upon the contractor of the costs of checking up the work. Mr. Satterfield saw nothing to be done but to permit Redd & Brother to withdraw their bid.

Mr. Richards stated that he did not concede the right of the City Engineer to refuse to do what he was doing, but to do what he was paid for doing. He favored permitting the contractors to withdraw their bid.

Engineer Responsible. Mr. Pollard contributed to the discussion in a direct and vigorous manner. He highly commended the Mayor, characterizing them as the best surveyors he knew. "I would gather have them do this work than any man in the City Engineer's office." He further said that the City Engineer was responsible for the work, and that the City Engineer was responsible for the work.
